TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

SA SPECIAL FORCES REGISTERED TRADEMARKS AND THE USE THEREOF

The South African Special Forces Heritage Foundation NPC (SASFHF) is the rightful and duly registered owner of a series of South African Special Forces names, emblems and trademarks and holds the official legal right to deal and use the names, emblems and trademarks for whatever reason in terms of the 'Republic of South Africa Trade Marks Act, 1993'.

None of the registered items or proficiency badges or any replica may be used or worn unless it has been legally awarded and issued to a qualified person, nor may it be sold, exchanged, used in book, movie or video titles, utilized to market adventure tours and events, duplicated or traded by any individual or entity. Doing so will be against the law.

Any other entities that have used, or intend to use any of the registered names, emblems, trademarks or badges without the official authorization of the GOC SA Special Forces and SASFHF do this illegally and may be prosecuted for infringement of the Act on registered trademarks. Wearing any Special Forces Insignia on any dress by anyone that is not entitled to do so is in contravention of the law and will be dealt with in the appropriate way.

The names, emblems and trademarks include:

- The name "RECCE"
- The Name "Special Forces Operator"
- The SA Special Forces "Operators Badge" (In any class i.e. Silver, 10 Years, etc)
- The SA Special Forces "Attack Divers Badge"
- The South African Special Forces Beret Badge
